SAN FRANCISCO BUSINESS TIMES INFLUENTIAL WOMEN 36

Jennifer L. Kelly

Intellectual property & commercial litigation chair, games industry group co-chair, and litigation partner, Fenwick & West

Education: B.A., Political Science, University of California, Davis; J.D., University of California, Los Angeles.

Community involvement: I serve on the executive board of TechLaw, a global network of 26 technology-focused law firms — I was the first woman elected to a leadership position in TechLaw's history. I also serve on the board of directors of the Video Game Bar Association.

Biggest professional accomplishment: Becoming the co-chair of a successful practice in the games industry, which has historically been dominated by men.

Biggest challenge or setback in your career: Being pulled in too many directions at once. I've learned to be organized and focused — I start every day with a to-do list and minimize interruptions.

Inspirational mentor: Ruth Bader Ginsburg, for her brilliance and fearlessness. And because she fits in pushups and planks every day.

Surprising fact about you: I've realized over the past year that I am actually an introvert. I love interacting with people, but definitely need alone time to recharge.
